WIKING CONTROL87 has got a new addition: The MAN Lion's City joins the range as a new 1:87 model with high-end technology on board and a system that model enthusiasts can configure themselves – thanks to WIKING's fascinating remote control set-up with its precisely scaled steering control and digital proportional control system! From now on, all the system components will be available individually, enabling even more effective combinations of models and radio remote control systems to be created. For fans of remote-controlled models in 1:87, there is an attractive trio of WIKING vehicles. Alongside the MAN Lion's City stand a giant of an airfield fire service vehicle – the Rosenbauer Panther 6x6 – and the LF 10/6 fire service vehicle on a MAN TGL chassis – all literally ready for action.

Thanks to the precise remote control system, all the vehicles have their own individual appeal and considering that the dimensions of the models are completely different to each other, enthusiasts will be surprised at their completely different driving styles. The long-life lithium-polymer micro-battery gives these powerful and versatile models perfect traction for their journey onwards in the big world of model vehicles. So WIKING has succeeded in giving enthusiasts a new dimension to automotive authenticity on a scale of 1:87. WIKING-Modellbau GmbH & Co.
